Walt Saprnov, BA, MA, JD, a partner with Saprnov & Associates, PC, with over 20 years' experience in telecommunications transactions, has represented some of the largest corporate enterprises and telecommunications providers in the US. These include financial institutions and other large enterprises, as well as telephony, data, wireless, cable and broadband providers. Practice areas include large purchase transactions and regulation of both traditional telephony and emerging information technologies, such as Voice over IP, broadband (wireless and wireline), Internet access and IPTV. Saprnov & Associates, PC is an Atlanta, Georgia, law firm having an alliance with King & Spalding LLP.

The firm's practice encompasses a wide variety of telecommunications transactional and regulatory matters. These include, among others, carrier interconnection, purchase and other commercial agreements, bankruptcy matters and regulatory approvals for telecom entry, mergers, acquisitions, license transfers and financing. Transactional experience also includes cable, mobile and local interconnection, fiber leasing, collocation, franchise, pole attachment, and rights-of-way agreements. Mr Saprnov has represented clients in telecommunications contract negotiations with every major carrier in the US.

The firm also represents clients before the Federal Communications Commission, state regulatory and municipal authorities. Practice areas include all aspects of federal and state regulatory compliance, including entry, tariff, universal service, emergency calling and homeland security regulations.

Mr Saprnov co-chairs Law Seminars International's (LSI) 'Negotiating Telecommunications Deals' seminars, is an adjunct professor at the Georgia Institute of Technology (teaching US telecommunications law and regulation), and has authored numerous publications including Telecommunications Law, Regulation and Policy (1998, Saprnov & Read, eds.).
